To the County Commissioners.

The Department of Environmental Quality has in place, the processes, and the authority to steer Republic Services toward compliancy. I have all the faith that the methane issues are headed toward being resolved. Methane in landfills is not a new issue; there are pathways for reduction. The DEQ, in the state of Oregon, has demonstrated repeatedly their ability to steer the state toward an ever-improving environment. Let them do their job.

The County Commissioners need to decide on the future of the landfill and any contractual and long-term obligations.

From a neighbor of the Landfill, and the Site Manager of Hollingsworth & Vose, I see both perspectives. Your first decision was extremely well evaluated and I believe you should stay on that course.
